HONGEONG, NOVEMBER 16TH, 1888. In an Indian contemporary we find an article suggested by a pamphlet recently published by Messrs. BLACEWOOD AND SONS ontitled " Indo-Burmah-China Bailway Connections." The pamphlet itself we have not seen, but from the article in the Times of India we learn that it is written in support of the suggested Rangoon-Mandalay and Bhamo line as opposed to the Zimmé-Monlmein line proposed by Messrs. CoLQU-HOUN and HALLETT. Our contemporary supports the view of the writer of the pamphlet. The Moulmein-Zimmé, or Messra, COLQUHOUN and HALLETT Line, it says, would start from a British port, Moulmein, and skirting the coast would run for about eighty miles through a somewhat narrow strip of British territory. Then, for three hundred and eighty-three miles, it would lie for advice on such subjects, and who are within the Kingdom of Siam, running beyoud it for two hundred and forty-two miles through practically independent Shan States. The returns of the Bhamo, trade which have been collected since the Indian Government came into possession have not proved so large by a long way as was expected, and, even granting that the engineering difficulties of a through line from India to China were removed, we think it very questionable whether the returns from such a line would at present pay interest on its capital. The Title of RIDER HAGGARD S. COLONEL QUARITOH, V.C.

In this dramatic work, the author of "She makes a new departure. Instead of placing his characters in lands remote from civilization and subjecting them to influences of the most remarkable and unprecedented nature, he has here written an English treasure story of the present day. The hero is a soldier in the British army a wearer of the Victoria Cross, who returns home from the recent operations in the Scudan, to exchange the perils and privations of warfare in the desert for a series of sensational incidents among pleasant English landscapes, and the ultimate reward of an ancestral home brightened by the beauty of a comely bride. The plot is well contrived, there is strong individualisation in the characters; the scenes are depicted with clearness and a warm glow of local colour, while the main incidents are worked out with nower. Not even in "King Solomon's Mines," when entrance is effected into the mysterious chamber, is the thrill greater than when Colonel Quaritch unearths the treasure, hidden away from Cromwall's soldiers, the recovery of which saves an Hougkoug Observatory, 15th November, 1888.

EXTRACT.

EGYPTIAN CIGARETTES. A correspondent of the Lanest at Caire supplies the following information on the employment and manufacture of the cigarettes exported from Egypt :- "The irresponsible writer who succeeded in starting a correspondence on this subject in the leading lay journal, before he was promptly disown ed by Middlesex Hospital, informed the public that this form of smoking was pro ductive, in his opinion, of unlignant throat disease. His experience is not borne out by European doctors bere, who see men smokevery day their forty or fifty cigarettes without barm, and without a single recorder care of cancer occurring in the throat. Jost of the succeeding letters of this correspondence call for no remark until we come to one signed by ' M.D.,' containing a warning that the heat from the burning eigarette pa per, or possibly the quality of the paper used may have influence in keeping up an irritable form of chronic bronchitie. Now in this favoured country we are debarred from seeing much t inchitis; but we do occasionally see cases of batinate pharyngitis not yield ing to drug treatment. In some such cases I have persuaded Englishmen to substitute cigara fortbeir thirty or more daily cigarettes. They thus smoke a greater and stronger supply of tobacco, but they lose their pharyn. gitis. This looks as if the paper, or possibly the chlorine used in blenching it, was the direct cause of the chronic inflammation. The only other evil I have ever seen from signrette smoking during five years' hospital and private practice is a mild dyspepsia, patients complaining of perpetual furred unanimously affirm that good Turkish tobacco is so delicate that it will not admit of the least perfume or flavour of a foreign nature without becoming at once so changed as to be unsmokable. Yesterday I visited the four largest factories without warping, and now smoked all over the world are made from the finest plants are grown at Yenidje and to rectify the cause of disastisfaction. Cavalla. The Egyptian merchants, who are all Gracks, maintain that they buy the best of the crops, and ship the produce off to Cairo to avoid the monopoly of the Tobacco Regie, the remainder being sold by the Regie. The proper time for sowing in Turkey is in December; goat's manure on the land gives ACCONE'S, SHERBY, PORT, CLA the best perfume ultimately, and the delicate RETS. BURGUNDY, plants must be protected by matting from cold and snow. In April the seedlings are transplanted; and in August the leaves are ready to be gathered. The quality varies according to the part of the plant from which leaves have been taken; the lowest are rank COOKING STOVES, SCALES. and very inferior; the small upper leaves PAINTS, OILS and VARNISH, furnish tobacco of the best quality, and the middle leaves mixed with a percentage of JUVENILE VELOCIPEDE HORSES the smallest constitute afterwards the chespest varieties of cigarettes. The gathered leaves are therefore kept in three lots, and when they have been well dried in the sun, they are pressed and made up into bales of not less than 100 lbs. Before pressing the leaves they must be slightly damped by water in Smyrna, but this is not pressary in Youidje and Cavalla. The two great points to strive for are colour and scent, and these are dependent on careful picking, seed, and climate. The seed ought to be renewed every second year. The Cairo merchants buy the bales on the spot about March or April, Cairo the following October."

MENTAL LAZINESS. We doubt if even thoughtful Englishmen apart always from a limited class of ex perienced and observant teachers, are at al aware of the extent to which many men and more women are awayed by what is really nothing but mental laziness. Numbers of them positively will not apply their minds at all, preferring any consequences which may teault from ignorance, and emerge from hours:—This Time Table will take effect from quarte pages.

4 Vols. Imperial Quarto, Price, $20. ger classes, possibly even a majority, betray the same impulse as regards particular sub: jects. Men are constantly heard to affirm in confidential moments that they literally "cannot" acquire this or that ordinary branch of knowledge, while they do learn at the very same time things much more difficult, and requiring precisely the same kind of mental capacities. Hundreds of men will profess positive inability to learn the commonest facts relating to any science but their own, even when their own is kindred to the one discussed; while thousand: of women will calculate accurately all the measurements necessary for a dress, a really difficult process if accuracy is to be attained, and then declare unblushingly that they cannot, no, they can not understand rule-ofthree, or calculate Mr. Goschen's it. terest on their own fortunes. Half the men in the world who are not sensitive to mpere think it an impossibility for them o learn to read, musical potation, and we have beard a man, not without power of reasoning, and with a special aptitude for mental arithmetic, declare that a usand years of tuition would not SILKPLUSHESD VARIOUS COLOURS. en ble him to comprehend . quadratin ecottion. Indeed, it is one of the phenomena of mental laziness that it often reveals itself

in its soutest form in the naturally able, and that it is the reasoner who is most denuted by a particular set of syllogisms, not one whit more difficult than those he has already mastered. The inability is not positive, but TOUSE No. 25, ELGIN STREET. only relative, and is produced either by what we call "want of interest" in the subject. which may be either instinctive or natural or by a sense of pain in the effort, that, like the pain to tue arms in swimming, can be overcome only by frequent and continuous practice. If the necessity is peremptory, the inability speedily disappears; and that often in a way which at once indicates its source, It does not disappear gradually; it lasts. apparently as insuperable as ever, up to a definable moment; and then, presto! it is gone never to return. The truth is, enough has been learned to awaken unconsciously the faculty of attention, or, in other words, to take away the pain of it, and then the natural power has its full awing. That is, Rooms each, One of Four Rooms. we believe, the unvarying experience of every man who learns chesa-which no man ever. forgot-and of all except the few with natural bent" who study any abstract science whatsoever. In men possessed of the "natural bent" there is, of course, no laziness, because there is no sense of pain ; they learn without effort perceptible to themselves, as the savago lanna the wilderness of natural facts necessary to enable him to hunt or fish for food with success. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Baily Press. Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service Anton this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in scier ce generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given Dafila the accents being carefully marked on the best Namkiang principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of Wakefield space, schieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore chargeterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst Hailcong this work contains more than 50,000 English Nansing words and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charac- Titan ters. Again, despite all the grammars and Tsinan other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli. Widie cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitheric pub-For practical purposes the arrangement of
